

Uganda: Digital Sub-Wallets

Overview

The Digital Sub-Wallets (DSW) project aimed to build financial literacy and increase access for women to financial services. It worked with couples where one was member of a VSLA to improve intra-household relations and increase women's financial autonomy.

Results

Women who participated in household dialogues experienced increased participation in financial decision-making

Household dialogue participants were more likely to achieve financial goals than sub-wallet-only group

81%

Of women saw a positive change in their partners' behavior; 96% said this was sustained after project-end

76%

Of participants in the HHD arm reached their financial goals in comparison to 69% in the Sub-wallets-only arm
