

What are women telling us?

Dealing with compounding and multiple crises.

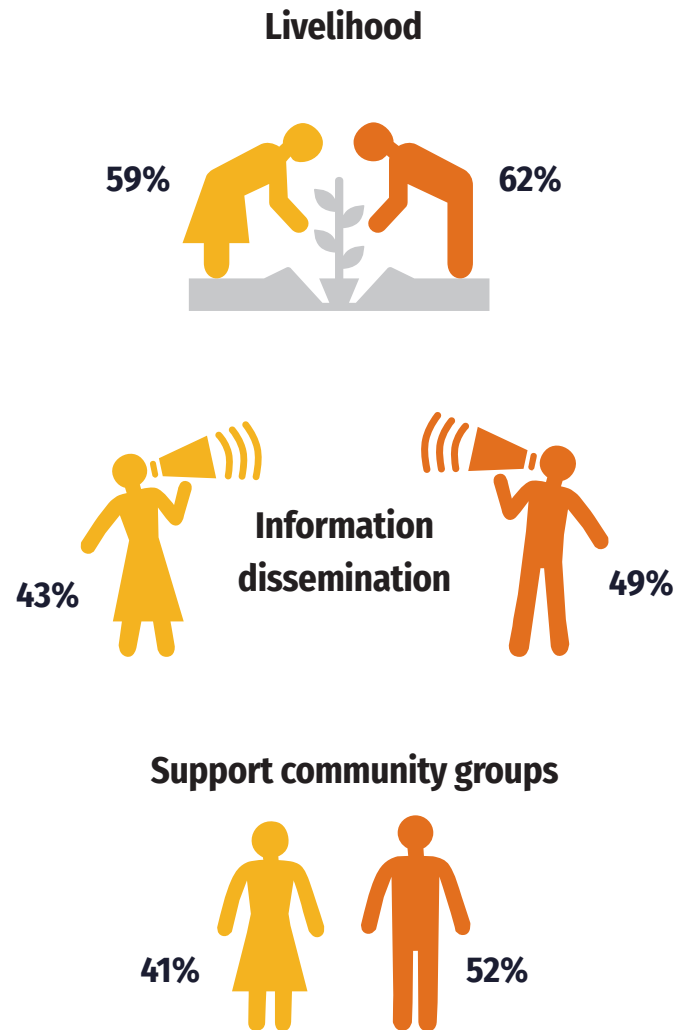

Concerned about loss of livelihood, food insecurity and safety.

Women are taking action.

Women are taking action and leading their household and communities through tough times.

What women are asking you to do?

Four areas for immediate support that women are asking.

“We are not responsible for the damages caused by climate change. I want to say to world leaders - you will take measures so that we can survive the losses that are happening.”
